FROM VICTORIA HOI AN

HOI AN

Formerly known as Faifo, it was a trading port for the Vietnamese, Chinese, Japanese and European from the 16th century, where silk, spices, tea, chinaware and mother of pearl were traded. Nowadays, Hoi An is a famous town listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site. It is a real life museum with its colorful and numerous old architectures including the 16th century Japanese Covered Bridge, old Chinese temples, bustling fishing market, traditional ceramic handicraft villages and boat builders. Galleries and little shops edge the sides of Hoi An's lively streets, where you can hear the noise of sewing machines making new wardrobes in record-time.

Main highlights also include visit to the market in the early hours along the river banks and see craftsman villages where sea carpenters still build the notorious China Sea junks following their ancestors' design.

MY SON

The "Angkor Wat" of Vietnam, one of the most spectacular archaeological sites, lies 50 km south of Hoi An. Although partly damaged from the Vietnam War, the My Son Holy Land is still listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site: 70 edifices built between the 7th and 13th century, including pagodas, towers, graves and reliquaries; these are the most beautiful vestiges from the Cham civilization in Vietnam.

DA NANG

30 km north of Hoi An, Danang was known under the French colonial times as Tourane, and it was later a major American war base during the Vietnam War. Some colonial houses can still be seen in this burgeoning city, as well as a neo-gothic cathedral built by the French in 1923, a cao-daist church and a market well-known for its highquality pepper. Visitors can also go to the Cham museum which holds 300 objects made of stone and clay, from the 7th-15th century period. Another major tourist attraction is 8 km from the city, the Marble Mountain, which includes 5 majestic granite peaks and beautiful caves in the Mountain of Water. Passing 157 stone steps to get to the pagoda, where Buddhist divinities are venerated, you will enjoy a breathtaking panorama of the surrounding scenery.

EXCURSIONS

Victoria Hoi An Beach Resort & Spa can arrange day trips to the old royal capital of Hue (120 km), cruises on the river with a stop at a traditional carpenter village, sunrise visits to the fish market or even a 4-day adventurous trip in side-car to the Lao border.

In 2010, it acquired Victoria Hotels and Resorts to expand its upscale and hotel services in popular tourist areas in Vietnam.

To date Victoria Hotels & Resorts has 6 hotels in operation: Victoria Phan Thiet Beach Resort & Spa (opened in April 1997), Victoria Sapa Resort & Spa (opened in March 1998), Victoria Can Tho Resort (opened in October 1998), Victoria Chau Doc Hotel (opened in November 1999) and Victoria Hoi An Beach Resort & Spa (opened in April 2001) and the last one in Cambodia, Victoria Angkor Resort & Spa (opened early 2004). Victoria Sapa Resort & Spa was the first hotel before Victoria Phan Thiet Beach Resort & Spa to get the full foreign license following the subsidization of 100% foreign capital. Subsequently, Victoria Hoi An Beach Resort and Victoria Chau Doc received their licenses too. The others properties are joint ventures with local partners.

Victoria Hotels & Resorts is now a leading international hotel chain in Indochina and employs more than 1,400 people including a multinational team of expatriates such as French, German, Swiss, Filipinos... It also believes in constant upgrading of its existing properties to cater to high end clientele and maintain a high level of service. “Green efforts” are high in priority in all upgrading projects to ensure sustainable tourism and the preservation of the delicate environment surrounding the properties. Victoria has sourced for certified “Green Labeled” operating equipment during the renovations to minimize energy consumption in their new guest rooms.

In May 2000, Victoria offered 4 departures per week for the Victoria Express Train linking Hanoi to Lao Cai, the Sapa railway station. Since November 2006, departures are increased to 6 times per week with new fleet of 4 sleeping carriages and “Le Tonkin” dining carriage.

In November 2007, Victoria Chau Doc Hotel successfully launched Le Jarai, a converted traditional rice barge offering deluxe day cruises between Long Xuyen and Chau Doc. Le Jarai offers a spacious dining area, open air roof deck for sunbathing, library lounge with day beds and even a private massage chamber.

In 2006, Victoria invested US$ 3 million in Phan Thiet and renovated the entire resort. Rooms were enlarged significantly to include outdoor showers and bigger private terraces; additional units were added: deluxe bungalows and new pool villas with 2-3 bedrooms. A large outdoor infinity-edge pool was also added to the spacious grounds.

VICTORIA VINTAGE CITROEN

In 2008, US$ 2 million was invested in Sapa, Hoi An and Can Tho. The spa in Sapa was totally revamped with a new Zen concept and additional facilities; a 20 new Junior Suite category was created in Hoi An by renovating existing beachfront rooms; all rooms in Can Tho were given new soundproof doors and new hardwood floors.

Since September 2008, new speedboats were also added to Victoria's fleet providing daily transfers between Chau Doc and Phnom Penh on the Mekong River. The fleet consists now of two 22-seater and one 6-seater comfortable speedboats.

The Lady Hau, provided by Victoria Can Tho Resort is a remodelled rice barge, available for breakfast, sunset, and dinner cruises. Built in the delta province of Tien Giang, it was designed as the barges that have been used for decades to ship rice from the delta to Ho Chi Minh City.

In 2011, The Lady Hau has been totally renovated, lower part of the hull has been replaced, the roof has been changed, and fire alarm system & water level alarm system has been installed.

Victoria Hotels & Resorts has long believed in the strong tourism appeal of Vietnam since the early days, and thus preferred to develop properties in off-the-beaten track locations where there were no significant competition. Their choice of these laid back locations has played a significant role in putting these destinations onto the maps of international tourists and tour operators, thus earning the hotel group several awards over the years, including "Pioneering Distant Destinations" and "Best Hotels" by the Vietnam Economic Times.

Siem Reap was subsequently chosen to further expand the spirit of French "Indochine" within the hotel group. Needless to say, future expansions would be focused on locations that enable Victoria to keep this spirit alive, and the deep sense of adventure.

The success of Victoria Hotels & Resorts lies on the unique combination of below:

Choice of location: with gorgeous views on the Mekong Delta at the river intersections; along the far stretches of beautiful South China Sea beaches; deep within the mountainous range of North Vietnam; cradle of the Angkor Temples.

Atmosphere: charming hotels with "Indochine" style and French colonial architecture, quality furniture from Vietnam and Cambodia and preservation of local handicrafts.

Quality of services: combination of both discovery and relaxation with a wide range of activities; the comforts of a rated international hotel (swimming-pool, bars, restaurants serving quality cuisine, sporting activities, spa...) and finally impeccable welcoming and attentive services.
